

Deal Politics

Dear Editor,

I have a queer feeling that 'Democracy' is going to be shoved down our throats, (The People's Mandate, as in Iraq.) It is so sad that the politics has become a sick and shameful game of compromises. Once enemies would become instant friends, if it leads to the corridors of power. Legitimizing and staying in power seems to be the only motive of the present regime.

The destiny of a nation has no meaning at all. Can anybody beat the low standards we are showing now, by making a deal with the devil? (The so called exiled leaders). We seem to be heading back to square one.

Is it hard to find reasonable leaders or is it just to please the lords across the oceans?

Why dishonor a nation by inviting the same old twice rejected or thrown out of the office politicians. Haven't we had enough? Lord have mercy on us.
