

To the Editor

Dear Sir,

Almost anyone and everyone with a little understanding of what's going on in the country, which in my opinion is extremely dreadful, can tell that RULE OF LAW is one of the most important among the answer for our survival.

All the law books and the institutions are around but for what we do not know. In the wild wild west there used to be a few outlaws who terrorized little towns but today we have given birth to a complete outlaw culture, a lawless society. We are already reaping the harvest of a sick, corruption, and mini civil wars. Hope diminishes everyday.

But who can save us, the ordinary people? When the custodians and the guardians of law become the violators of the law and basic rights?

Scene 1: March 12th, Dawn

Men in uniform jump the signal and break the law, in the process kill 4 civilians! Hush, Hush, no investigation, no follow up news, no FIR.

Scene 2: March 17th, Dawn

Ambushed attach on vehicle 5 men in uniform killed. A lot of follow up in all directions! Baldia, probably a small town of a million terrorized and turned upside down, house to house search, harassment and humiliation, torture, violence, extortion, curfew, deaths, exodus. Entire area terrorized by none other but our men in uniform.

Why the laws are not equally applied to all? Are the people (we call leaders) asleep, don't they know that what providence has in store for us.

DAZ

4th May 1994